

The 100 Game

- Prepare your pens and paper.
- Print out page two and cut the rules below into strips.
- Announce to the group that the aim is: “to write the numbers one to one hundred” on their paper. Explain that the first to achieve the aim will win a small prize, as long as you keep to the rules.
- Give each person a pen and piece of paper. Ensure that from this point, NO ONE is to speak.
- Give each person a piece of paper with the rules on it and ask them to read them carefully. The twist is that each person’s “rules” are slightly different.
- Shout “GO!” and watch the mayhem ensue...
- This game is good fun, but can be used to reflect on the purpose of rules, what happens when people have their own rules, how it felt when you saw others doing something different to you and so on.

Items needed:

- A pen or pencil and a piece of paper for each person.
- Copies of the second sheet below, cut into strips, so that there is one strip for each person.

Rules

You must write the numbers 1 to 100 in succession, missing no numbers out.
Each number must be clearly readable.
You must not interfere with any other person's writing.
These are all the rules.

Rules

You must write the numbers 1 to 100 in succession, missing no numbers out.
Each number must be clearly readable.
You must write with your left hand if you are right-handed (and vice versa if left-handed).

Rules

You must write the numbers 1 to 100 in succession.
Each number must be clearly readable.
Beware! You must miss out multiples of 13 or something terrible will happen to you.

Rules

You must write the numbers 1 to 100 in succession.
Each number must be clearly readable.
You must not interfere with any other person's writing by using any physical means, but can put them off otherwise.

Rules

DO NOT lift your pen for at least 60 seconds. Make negative comments about how others are wasting their time. When you think someone has nearly won, simply write this phrase "the numbers 1 to 100" on your page and set your pen down.

Rules

You must write the numbers 1 to 100 in succession, missing none out, with each number clearly legible. Do not interfere with anyone else, but you must tell the others to keep to the rules.

Rules

You must write the numbers 1 to 100 in succession, missing no numbers out.
Each number must be clearly readable.
You may gently interfere with any other people's writing if they are ahead of you.

Rules

You must write the numbers 1 to 100 in succession, missing no numbers out.
Each number must be clearly readable.
You must not interfere with any other person's writing.
These are all the rules.